Wells County Farmer Finds Oil on Chenp Land.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLUFFTON, Ind., Aug. 26 .- A few weeks ago Lewis Unrue, a Wells county farmer, bought a fifty-one-acre farm from the heirs of Rachel Ludwig, paying for it $1,400. An oil well was drilled on the land four years ago, but was capped as being no good. Last week the Standard Oil Company opened the well and in one hour pumped from it eighteen barrels of oil, a producing rate of 432 barrels per day. The company will now work the property, and Mr. Un-He also practiced medicine for ten years, rue, who stumbled upon a fortune, will

Oil on All Sides of the Town.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. HARTFORD CITY, Ind., Aug. 26.-The Pierce & Thomas oil well on the Maddox farm, near the Wayne paper mill, was shot to-day and is the best well yet found in the Hartford City field. Before it was at intervals. The well is in new territory east of this city, which goes to prove that Hartford City is surrounded by oil territory. The old operators scorned the idea Willow, Ind., and B. K. Hammer, residing of oil being found east of the city, but they are now making a great effort to lease land in the vicinity

The owners of the well have a lease on only eighteen acres, but will put down three more wells on the tract. The Wayne Paper Company has leased a large acreage and the Progress Oil Company has 100 acres near the new well and will begin sinking wells at once. Men of capital from the oil fields all over the United States are coming here with the intention of trying their fortunes. The field is constantly widening and the output increasing. There is only one drawback to operations and that It is almost impossible to get orders filled and operators in the Indiana field are seri-

Evangelical Work and Winona Re-

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 26.-To-day's services at the Winona Bible conference began with an early devotional meeting, led by Rev. R. A. Walton, of Owingsville, Ky., followed by an evangelistic conference, at which Rev. L. W. Munhall, of New York, to-day. She died near Fortville. She was presided. The forenoon lecture was delivered by Rev. James M. Buckley, editor of the Methodist Christian Advocate, of New York, following which came several addresses by leading evangelists, who gave personal experiences as to how their work was conducted in the sections of the country in which each resided. Dr. Munhall, of New York, presided. Rev. James B. Ely. of Philadelphia, representing the Presbyterian evangelistic committee, spoke of the wonderful success of the tent meetings inaugurated there three years ago by Rev. Dwight L. Moody, at an annual expense of $9,000. This year seven tents are maintained for evangelistic meetings, at a cost of $12,-

000. Mrs. Amanda Smith, a noted colored evangelist, also addressed the meeting. John Willis Baer, of Boston secretary the World's United Christian Endeavor Societies, presided at the conference for young people this afternoon, at which an address was delivered by Rev. Alexander Patterson, of Chicago. At another meeting of evangelists Evangelist M. B. Williams spoke. The hillside service, at sunset, was led by Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D. A powerful evening sermon was delivered by Rev. John

McNeil, of Scotland. The Evangelical Work, published in Ne York by Dr. Wilbur Chapman and J. I Carson, is to be combined with the Winona Review, and is to be published at Indianapolis by the Rev. Sol. C. Dickey and Dr.

The alumni of Lane Seminary, Cincinnati, held a reunion at the Moody Home and elected Henry L. Dickerson president and J. K. Gibson secretary of a permanent organization. Dr. Chapman is an alumnus of the seminary

STOWE IN LONDON. American Consul General at Cape

Town Talks of the War. LONDON, Aug. 26.-Consul General Stowe, who has arrived here from Cape Town, said to-day: "I find myself marooned in London. Apparently every berth on steamers bound for America is taken till the end of September, and I am anxious to get home, where I can do away with official cares and talk as a private citizen. You know more in London about the military affairs in South Africa than it is possible for anyone to know at Cape Town. "While I have resigned from the consular service, my resignation does not take effect till I reach Washington, hence it is impossible for me to say anything. You learn much more from returning officers than it is possible to learn from anyone else coming from the Cape "The South African problem is undoubtedly difficult and complicated. The topography of the country and the mobility the Boers, whom the English columns are unable to pursue individually, render operations most difficult. The British are feeding many prisoners and providing for thousands of Boer families, all of which is very nice on the part of England. But, in the meanwhile the war drags on. There is a great future for South Africa when peace is assured. The surface of her mineral wealth is scarcely scratched. Undoubtedly England is prepared to solve the problem of reunification, but when that will occur certainly no person at the Cape is able to Follows Up Its Injunction. CHICAGO, Aug. 26 .- Suing a former emplove for $25,000 damages on the charge that he spread disaffection among the other workmen and was thereby largely instrumental in causing a strike is the latest novelty in the many labor troubles in and near Chicago. The plaintiff in the suit is the W. B. Conkey Company of Hammond, which secured an injunction against the strikers a few days ago, and the defendant ready, was released to-night because Miss is James A. Russell, formerly employed by This action was filed in the Superior Court to-day. According to the counsel for the plaintiff, Russell has been persistent in his agitation among the other workmen, which has resulted in the strike now embarrassing the company. Twenty-five stereotypers, all but one in the Conkey shops, quit work yesterday, and the bookkeepers have organized. No work is being done in the shops. ATTEMPT TO WRECK A TRAIN.

DETERMINED TO KILL A NEGRO WHO IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Sheriff and Posse Holding 1,000 Men at Bay-Negro Surrounded in a Southern Swamp.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Aug. 26,-To-night a mob of 1,000 men surrounded the county jail here bent upon lynching Lewis Smith, a negro who had been arrested for attempting an assault upon Lucy Watson, the Knight & Jillson Co., seven-year-old daughter of a railroad employe. The sheriff, with a strong posse, is holding the jail against all entreaties, but CLOUDBURSTS, HAIL STORMS AND the mob has become very restless and an attack is expected. The blacks, of which there are a great number in Fort Smith, have become terrorized and many of them have fled from the city. Smith, it is charged, enticed the girl into a vacant house, but she managed to slip away from PORTO RICAN NEEDLEWORK. An Art Which Has Been Brought to a High State of Perfection.

Youth's Companion. Art embroidery is one of the great accomplishments of the women of Porto Rico. it is considered a necessary part of their education, and is not only taught in the convent schools, but also in private schools established solely for that purpose. Senorita Herminia Davila, or, as she prefers to be called, Miss Davila, who has been the proprietor and teacher of such a the United States to exhibit specimens of her work at the Buffalo Exposition, has brought over a portrait of Washington done in black and gray silks of hair-like fineness, perfectly reproducing the shades she uses, she found herself unable to do so. This thread, which is made in France especially for embroidering purposes, can always be procured in Porto Rico without difficulty. In most cases art needlework is learned by the Porto Rican women simply as an accomplishment, but there are many women on the island who earn their living by embroidery. In their work they use linen, silk, satin, velvet, gold thread, silver tissue and other materials. Altar cloths and ecclesiastical vestments furnish some of the finest specimens of this art needlework. A great deal of fancy work in leather is also done. The leather is cut out in the forms desired with sharp graph frames, fancy baskets, watch cases and other purposes. It is sometimes left in its natural state, and in other instances is coated with shellac. So far as the condition of the professional embroiderers are concerned, the effect of American rule on the islands has been beneficial. The Americans have greatly admired their work, and have spent their money freely for specimens to send home. No regular export trade in artistic needlework has yet been created, but a society of women in Ponce is buying "drawn work" from other women for the purpose of introducing it into the American market. This production is after the style of the Mexican drawn work, which some time ago became famous in this country. TRAMP RAILROAD MEN.

'tramp' railroad man,' said a division su-perintendent of one of the trunk lines running into Washington. "The tramp railroad man usually begins Co., and halled from Hamburg. She was his career of wandering, seeking employment from road to road, after his first dismissal because of drinking. He may be an experienced man, such as any road would be glad to employ, but his weakness for whisky caused his downfall, and, like other men, once the downward slide begins, every jolt in the toboggan path sends him farther toward the bottom. "Railroads all over the country are enforcing the rule demanding strict sobriety with great rigidness. They are the most practical advocates of temperance in the land. They do not plead with men, and old up frightful examples of the result of drink. The question is resolved to its most simple terms. "It is singular, though true, that once a railroad man begins to 'tramp,' as we say, lynching of Henry Stewart, a negro hackit is the exception that he climbs up again. He soon develops a grievance, like other proved to be untrue. Stewart was said to men on the downward road, and falls into the error that everybody is against him. He seldom lays the fault at his own door. where it belongs.

"We demand the strictest sobriety among the train dispatchers. These men must always be in the full possession of all their faculties unaided by stimulants. If the smell of liquor is detected on the breath of a train dispatcher, the 'old man' calls the culprit down in unmistakable terms. and a repetition of his offense means the loss of his place. As a rule, train dispatchers are teetotalers.

"The prevention of destruction of its property by accident and the safeguarding of the lives of its passengers are the cardinal principles governing the control of railroad employes. The swagger conductor or engineer, with his nerves keyed up by a 'few drinks' is now almost a memory. Each year the habits of sobriety, neatness, accuracy and truthfulness are becoming more and more part and parcel of a railroad man by reason of rigid enforcement of the rules. While it is true to a large extent that the companies are actuated by self-interest and not by temperance or humanitarian motives, the result, as far as the men are concerned, is the same as if the latter considerations were the only ones at issue." Little Wabash and His Dilemma.

Detroit Tribune All through life the trouble with the boy who was born on a Wabash train last Friday, between Adrian and Detroit, will be to fix his natal spot. He came into the world at the rate of fifty miles an hour, which is a pretty swift pace for a youngster, even in these speedy days. that he is of Canuck parentage will not alienate him from the patriotic desire to know and hallow his native place. Possibly Dr. Kirkpatrick can make a guess at but the doctor's engagement was merely that of "advance agent," and not topo-graphical engineer. It is possible that he may, with his knowledge of localities, fix the county and perhaps the township, with to be a fine steel engraving, and as far as no native place that he knows of, and how can he sing, "My Country, 'tis of Thee?" Much depends on Adrian's ex-mayor-doctor to give him a birthplace. He already has a name, for the passengers on board the train gave him that. They called him The much greater extent to which fine "Wabash," his last name being Alvin, and embroidery is practiced in Porto Rico than his destination Pointe Au Chene, Ont. A dollar a minute was not so badthanks to the traveling public. And yet if his birthplace cannot be authentically determined it will make a world of worry for little Wabash when he grows up and becomes a candidate for Governor General of Canada. In tracing himself it will not be enough to proclaim that he whizzed into being in Michigan, at fifty miles an hour, and in the language of Artemus Ward, "It
